

Section 1 / Lecture 5 – Conclusion to Section 1

In section 1 we talked a little bit about the German language and we talked about the course. You even started reading German words, which is not difficult at all as soon as you have mastered some rules. We've seen that both English and German belong to the same family and have quite a lot in common, at least as far as the word stock is concerned. In the next sections of this course you will discover that there are many more similarities.

We tried to answer the question who this course is best suited for. I showed you how the course is organized, how to use it most effectively and what skills you will learn. We went briefly over the curriculum and saw that the scope of this course is quite broad. I also emphasized that your study is going to be incremental and build on your previous knowledge. And the key word to success is practice.

So, if you feel the course is right for you, dive deep into the next sections, enjoy the course, have fun and learn.
